

Connor, Heine Will Head Sophs, Frosh As Result of Student Council's Decision

Ruth Johnstone, Frank Davis, Eleanor Rankin, Julian Smith Also Chosen As Officers

Using an unprecedented procedure which involved the appointing of sophomore and freshman class officers instead of the customary method of choosing them through election, the Men's Student Council last night picked leaders of the two lower division classes.

Robert Connor, College of Agriculture, was chosen as head of the sophomore class. Ruth Johnstone, College of Commerce, was elected vice-president, and Frank P. Davis, was picked to serve as secretary-treasurer.

Freshman appointees are Lee A. Heine, College of Arts and Sciences, president; Eleanor Rankin, College of Arts and Sciences, vice-president, and Julian Smith, College of Agriculture, secretary-treasurer.

Names submitted to the council for nomination as class officers came from the offices of each of the deans of the four colleges in which lower division students are registered. From these names the council made its final selections.

Until this year officers of the sophomore and freshman classes have been chosen in general class elections. Last year the election of the two lower division classes and the junior class was declared void by the council and the officers were appointed by the deans and selected by the council.

Council members stated that they preferred not to take the chance of a similar situation arising this year, and gave this as the reason for handling the affair in this manner.

The new president of the sophomore class, Robert Connor, was chosen last year as the outstanding freshman of his college. He is a member of many agriculture organizations and belongs to Alpha Gamma Rho social fraternity.

Lee Heine, a newly-appointed president of the freshman class, has appeared in Gaudia productions, is a member of Pershing Rifles, the advertising staff of The Kernel, and is pledged to Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Members of the council who selected the new officers were Labe Jackson, chairman, James Anderson, Ike Moore, Robert Grace, Dan Scott, John L. Davis, and George Spencer.

Need Of Municipal Auditorium Cited By Coach A. Rupp

The need for a municipal auditorium and a municipal field house to enable Lexington to take advantage of large athletic events and conventions was discussed by Coach Adolph Rupp at the weekly meeting of the Lions Club held Wednesday noon at the Lafayette hotel.

"If we are going to be in the big-time parade, we had better get in that parade right now and build an auditorium that will fill our needs," Coach Rupp said. He pointed out two desirable types of buildings to satisfy all purposes, the first a downtown auditorium which could be used for local concerts, plays and entertainments, and the second, a field house seating 10,000 or more persons at which even the largest of athletic events could be staged.

Coach Rupp estimated that $15,000 was spent by the people who attended the recent Kentucky-Notre Dame game in Louisville in one day, and emphasized this fact to show what large basketball crowds would mean to Lexington merchants. He also expressed the belief that the Southeastern tournament could be brought to Lexington if facilities for a large crowd were provided.

Library Contest Plans Announced

Prizes Totalling $50 To Be Awarded Best Undergraduate Libraries

The annual contest conducted by Judge Samuel M. Wilson of Lexington for the best individual undergraduate library, with prizes totaling $50, was announced yesterday by Miss Margaret I. King, University librarian.

Thirty dollars will be awarded the best library and $20 as second prize. The contest is conducted in order to encourage students in collecting their own library. Information on application and time of expiration of the contest may be obtained from the office of Miss King.

Several exhibits, now being shown in the first floor lobby of the library were also announced by Miss King. These include "What America Is Reading," "Technical Books of 1935," and "Appreciation of Literature."

—AND NAMES MAKE NEWS

If some students come to college and realize, after registration, that they would have made better street car operators or third basemen, we sympathize with them. But a glance through your student directory will convince you with the belief that this is an academy of misfits.

Slapping you right in the face is an abbot, John Williams, to be exact, not commanding a troop of monks, but grinding away in the College of Engineering. Two Abels, Margaret Joanna and Susan Jean, are not busy making biblical history, but leading quiet lives in the Arts and Science temples. Six Bakers are studying everything but home economics. All the vocal cacophonies on the campus are traceable to five Barkers.

There are three Barnes here: Lucian Wallace looks all right in the Ag school, but Howard E. and Augustine Edward are decidedly out of place in the Commerce castle and A. & S. buildings. Think of it!

Miss Krauter appeared on the Sunday afternoon series four years ago and won immediate approval from her audience for her artistic abilities, and numerous requests have been received asking for a return engagement of the artist. Since her New York debut at Town Hall, Miss Krauter's appearances in 80 cities have been a progression of artistic triumphs. She has been acclaimed as soloist with such orchestras as the New York Philharmonic and Minneapolis, St. Louis, Toronto and Denver symphonies. U. K. MUSICIANS PRESENT OPERA

DeKoven's "Robin Hood" Given By University Orchestra, Men's And Women's Glee Clubs Last Night

Students in the University department of music presented DeKoven's well-known opera "Robin Hood" last night in the auditorium of Henry Clay high school.

Leading parts in the production, which was directed and supervised by Professor Carl Lampert, head of the music department, and Miss Iva Dagley, Lexington soprano, were taken by Jesse Mountjoy as Robin Hood, Katherine Park, as Lady Marian Fitzwalter, and Mary Eleanor Clay in an impersonation part of Alan-a-Dale. The play was laid in England at the time of the Crusades and concerned the adventures of one Robert, Earl of Huntingdon, who, denied a fortune through the devices of the Sheriff of Nottingham and Sir Guy of Gisborne, flees to the woods and forms an outlaw band. To escape marrying the villainous Gisborne, Maid Marian runs away and joins Robin and his band. The arrival of King Richard from the Crusades brings events to a happy conclusion by punishing the sheriff and Sir Guy and restoring Robin and Maid Marian to their rightful places.

This production was the first to be produced by the department during the regular school year. Members of the chorus were made up of the men's and women's glee clubs.

President McVey's "Between Us" Talk To Be Given Tuesday

Pres. Frank L. McVey will deliver his annual "Between Us" talk to the student body at 10 a. m., Tuesday, January 19, in Memorial hall. In this yearly general convocation President McVey, with his famous friendliness, discusses the many problems that arise during a collegian's career, and gives vital advice concerning the solutions of these vicissitudes.

Doctor McVey, in a letter to the Kernel, stated that he "has some things to say to the student body that should be of interest to them."

PLAN BANQUET FOR GRADUATING SENIORS

A tentative date for the annual mid-year banquet for the graduating class, given by the Alumni association, was set and reports of the secretary heard at a dinner meeting of the executive committee of the association held Monday night at the Lafayette hotel, with R. K. Salyers and James Shropshire as hosts.

Tuesday, Jan. 26, was the planned date. The secretary reported on the recent reception held after the Notre Dame game in Louisville, and also introduced plans for a meeting of all alumni secretaries in Kentucky at the University in the near future.

FRAT NEOPHYTES ARE HONORED BY 'Y', I-F COUNCIL

200 Pledges Attend First Dinner Sponsored By Interfraternity Group

UNIVERSITY Y. M. C. A. CO-SPONSORS MOVE

"Value Of Fraternity Life," Subject Of Principal Address

Approximately 200 pledges of the 17 social fraternities on the campus attended the first Interfraternity pledge dinner, co-sponsored by the Interfraternity council and the University Y. M. C. A., last night in the University Commons.

Dr. William E. Alderman, dean of men at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and nationally prominent educator, delivered the principal address of the evening, discussing "The Value of Fraternity Life." The program was opened with introductory remarks by Kenneth Raynor, Delta Chi, president of the Interfraternity council, who welcomed the pledges. Doctor Alderman's address followed.

Musical numbers during the dinner were given by Bob Downing, a student at Transylvania. Dean W. S. Taylor was toastmaster at the dinner and introduced Dean Alderman.

A short reception in the form of a get-together among the guests and in order that they might meet the speaker, was held in the faculty club rooms adjoining the Commons preceding the dinner.

The affair, held under the supervision of Bart N. Peak, University Y. M. C. A. secretary, is the first of its kind to be held at the University. Its object is to promote better feeling among the pledges of fraternities on the campus through gatherings to hear various talks on the benefits of fraternity life.

Delta Sigma Chi To Initiate Five

Buckley, Shaw, Gay, Kerler, And Richardson To Be Honored

Delta Sigma Chi, men's journalistic honorary, will hold initiation services for five men at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the home of Elmer Sulzer, faculty advisor, 324 Aylesford Place.

Those who will be initiated are Sidney Buckley, Sturgis; Cliff Shaw, Louisville; Marvin Gay, Mt. Sterling; George Kerler, Clifton, N. J.; and James Richardson, Ashland.

The honorary was formed last year as a successor to the Kentucky chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national men's journalistic honorary, who requested their charter withdrawn because of excessive cost of initiation. The organization is sponsor of the Sour Mash, humor magazine. Officers of the organization are Dave Salyers, president; Ross Chepeleff, vice-president; James Stevens, secretary, and Raymond Lathrem, treasurer.

Wallis Announces Welfare Committee

Four members of the University faculty and Mrs. Frank L. McVey were recently appointed by Frederick A. Wallis, chairman of the Department of Welfare of Kentucky, as a committee to work out a program for rehabilitation of boys and girls at Greendale Houses of Reform.

Those named were Dr. Harry Best, head of the department of sociology; Dr. Graham B. Dimmick, director of the child guidance service clinic; Bart N. Peak, secretary of the University Y. M. C. A.; and Dean W. S. Taylor of the College of Education.

Exam Issue of Sour Mash Surges Forth On Tuesday

Exams are the order of the day—and studies are the orders for the next two weeks. This short interval of time will see some books "chewed," others "disgusted," and still others thrown out the window accompanied by the staccato of blasphemous utterings.

Sour Mash will enter into the midst of the fervor and frenzy of this "post-bellum" period with a monthly edition, on sale Tuesday, to brighten the study room cluttered with textbooks and term papers, and to gladden the heart of their owner. But the "order of the day" will not be forgotten even in the leisure moments when the perusal of the monthly humor magazine will be eminent, for Sour Mash will endeavor to make light of exams and the idiosyncrasies forthcoming from this semi-annual period of "cramming" and "dirty-nosing."

The theme of the "Exam Issue" is well portrayed by the cover cartoon—a burlesque of the students and professors on the "fateful day."

A large number of Spanish students and those interested in the present war in Spain attended a lecture given by Miss Josephina Ramirez, 21-year-old Spanish Red Cross nurse, Monday night in the auditorium of the University training school.

Miss Ramirez gave her lecture in Spanish and it was interpreted by J. E. Hernandez, instructor in the department of romance languages at the University. She also answered many questions on the present crisis. Miss Ramirez told principally of her adventures as a nurse in the conflict.

The International Relations class, the International Relations club and the American Student were sponsors of the lecture. Prof. Hobart Ryland, head of the department of romance languages, presided at the meeting. A short talk was also delivered by Rev. Warner Hall, pastor of the Maxwell Presbyterian church.

Illness of Carlisle, Thompson, Hagan Handicaps Play Of Big Blue; Spartans Lead at Half

BLUE DISSATISFIED WITH OFFICIALS' WORK

Nelson Leads Scorers With Nine Points; Opper and Carlisle Tally Six

(Special To The Kernel)

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 14—Michigan State's Spartans evened the season's series with Kentucky by eking out a 24-23 victory tonight before a capacity crowd which jammed the field house here.

Carlisle's field goal after Nelson's free throw put the Rupp-men into a lead which they held until two minutes before the half ended. Carlisle, Thompson and Hagan played intermittently because of illness and injuries.

At the half time, the Spartans were leading by the same slim margin which later won them the game. Throughout the entire game, the Wildcats received lesser consideration in the calling of fouls. Fourteen fouls were called on the Kentucky team, while the Spartans were victims to seven.

It was apparently the roughest game the 'Cats participated in this year, and the Kentucky Coaches were definitely dissatisfied with officiating at the encounter. It was learned through a reliable source that this dissatisfaction on the part of the 'Cat coaches may lead to a permanent severance of athletic relations with Michigan State University.

Nelson of Michigan State was the high scorer for the evening, garnering nine points in a game of infrequent scoring. Carlisle and Opper of Kentucky, and Garlock of the Spartans shared second place honors, all three accounting for six points.

A statement made by John McKenney, student manager of the Kentucky team, concurs with the belief that the dissatisfaction of officiating will lead to severance of basketball relation. He stated that the officiating was seemingly unfair to the Kentucky team.

Scores made by the individual players of both teams is as follows: Kentucky—Hagan, 2; Carlisle, 6; Opper, 6; Walker, 4; Thompson, 5; Hodge, Goforth, Donohue.

Michigan State—Dargush 4; Rolan; Osterink; Nelson, 9; Kraft, 5; Garlock, 6.

Referee: Traunicek; Umpire: Clarno.

STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAINHOW MUCH SHOULD THE PROFESSOR CLOISTER HIMSELF?

The complaint has been made that many college professors draw themselves too much into the intrinsic life, thus becoming, as a natural consequence, unheeding and unmindful of the common externalities about them. The fingers of their brains have lost the sense to feel the pulse of the world, and more specifically, the campus.

These complainants further argue that such a professor would not be entirely competent to analyze conditions as they exist and as they pertain to the world into which the college man will later find himself enmeshed.

Such professors, they argue, read, outside of a few scholarly magazines, nothing but books and papers which pertain to their field, hear nothing but the gossip which buzzes around a bridge table.

Such is the case against the cloistered professor. The cure? Well, regular movies of the lighter nature, magazines which contain more frothiness, an occasional late night club broadcast, and perhaps even a fling among hoi polloi.

Now it must be admitted that there are some college professors who do not have a great deal of awareness of social and economic conditions. There are some who do not even know of the modern spirit—whatever that may be.

But to persecute a professor with the cures aforementioned is unthinkable. A little swing music now and then may "soothe the savage breast." However, if the professor should, in order to un-cloister himself, be forced to take in the ordinary Hollywood production, or read a "body-builder" magazine, then, Lord help him, we don't blame him if he prefers to cloister himself.

1. When you lovingly pat a little boy on the head as you pass him on the street—and he gives you a swift kick in the shins?

2. When you're dressed up like a Vogue advertisement for that special date—and as you walk along with him look down to find your bedroom slippers still on your feet?

3. When you amble into the Tavern with the place jammed with stoogents you know—and skid on a piece of ice?

4. When life doesn't seem worth living anymore—and you get a letter with a check in it from home?

5. When you gush, "Hello" into the telephone—and someone says, "Not you, funny-face, I want to talk to your roommate!"???

Physics and math are mysteries to him, but he'll spend all of his time watching detective pictures unravel their complicated plots at the show—and is he proud when he can figure out the murderer?... He can give you the salary, history, age, and home address of any actor you ask for—but try to question him about his dates in history class, or his authors in literature class, and he's at a complete loss... This Campus and
That World

By RALPH E. JOHNSON

HARDLY A DAY GOES BY that someone doesn't ask me, or any of the other several hundred students down here from the No'th, "Why did you come down here to school?" Often, but much more seldom they add, "They have such good schools up there."

I thought that as the years went by I would become inured to that question. I also thought perhaps people would quit asking it of me, but it happens every time I meet someone. However, yesterday I was talking with two pretty little college gals up in the Commons and on being introduced to one of them, the first question put to me was, "Where is your home?" and right on the heels of my answer came that familiar song and dance about my reason for coming South to school.

Being in the mood for a good lively argument, I took issue with the inferences concerning the schools in the South, and claimed that they were just as good here as they are anywhere else, a fact I thoroughly believe.

Neither of these little girls had ever been farther away from home than Cincy, but were quite willing to "know it all" when it came to knocking their own state university. I really was silly to waste breath on either of the little empty heads, but I couldn't help wanting to argue in favor of this school of ours.

Both of these frail creatures live in Lexington. To them the University is just a "glorified high school" as it is to so many of the Henry Clay graduates. It has been too close to them all of their lives for them to realize that this is opportunity for them to gain a college education without the burden which goes along with "going to college." Many a boy or girl keenly desires the chance to try for higher learning. Many hundreds of them are willing to work like dogs to put themselves through college. Yet the Lexington students are able to go to school for the price of their books and tuition which is so low that it even attracts students from that far away place, the North.

Never do they have to worry about where the next meal is coming from. There is never a care about laundry, room, traveling expenses home for holidays. They aren't strangers in a strange town where "2012" students make up a certain social group.

Here they are in a swell town, "the heart of the Bluegrass." It is aristocratic, progressive, and offers no end of educational facilities not found anywhere else in the state, and perhaps nowhere else in the South. Narrow and quite like the cows that admire grass on the other side of the fence, they look to Virginia and admire the "great" universities there, yet not one of them is the all around equal of our own.

I suggested that our department of Journalism was pretty near tops. "Phooey," they said. It is only a department, said I, yet it ranks with colleges of journalism. I offered the Kernel as proof of my statement. Neither of them ever had anything to do with putting out the sheet, but they both knew it was up to scratch, accused us of never taking a definite stand on any question, or of doing anything progressive.

It isn't necessary to go into all of the things we discussed. The objections they have to the school are based on ignorance. But it is significant to note that as a prophet is without honor in his own country, so is a great University without honor in its own home town.

(WHEN HE WAS VERY YOUNG)

AS small boys, many fathers now living knew the telephone only as a little used curiosity. It grew into today's constantly used necessity largely because the Bell System never ceased looking for the new and better way. It stayed young in its thinking.

Young ideas developed "conference service", enabling several nearby or widely separated persons to talk on one telephone connection. Young ideas steadily made long distance service better, quicker, yet cheaper.

Young ideas are at work day and night to make sure America continues to get more and better service for its telephone dollar.

UNCEASING CARE

"Long life and prosperity!" That is the toast of the New Year. And it is the toast of our American railroads, for—factors other than transportation being equal—their travelers live the longest and their shippers suffer the least from loss and damage. • That well-known motto "Safety First!" is derived from the opening rule in the book of railway operation: "Safety is of the first importance in the discharge of duty."

• Railway safety is enhanced by strong track, automatic train control, electric block signals, improved braking, special safeguards on trains, constant inspection and repair of equipment, constant schooling of the men at work. • As a result, on the travel side alone, 99 of the 142 principal American railroads recently completed 15 years with not a passenger fatality in a train accident—this despite the movement annually of hundreds of millions of passengers billions of miles. The Illinois Central is now in its ninth consecutive year of similar safety to passengers. • Protection of freight, as measured by claim payments, is likewise at a high standard, the loss declining in recent years to considerably less than a dollar per revenue car.

REMINDER . . .
Safety, like charity, must begin at home if patrons are to be protected in their lives and property. I am especially proud of the fact that thousands of Illinois Central supervisory employees hold cards testifying to years of clear safety records for the men under their direction.

AFTER MEETING MICHIGAN STATE Thursday night, the hardwood heroes hie themselves to Cincinnati, the Queen City, to tackle Akron University. A newcomer to the Kentucky schedule, this team is a dark horse, feared by many. It has defeated some of the major teams of the East by fairly large margins, so this should prove to be a knock-down drag-out contest. This game is half of a double-header that features also a tilt between Xavier and Butler.

Kentucky's gridiron heroes enjoy no little prowess among their opponents of last season, according to an All-American consensus taken recently from all major American elevens by a nationally prominent weekly magazine. Gene Myers, the standby of the Wildcat eleven for two years, rated sixth place in the battle for the center position, which was won by Mike Basrak of Duquesne. Stan Nevers, Bob Davis, and Bert Johnson also received honorable mention, being each highly rated by their opponents.

"Big Jim" Goforth, the Louisville Larruper, and Walter Hodge, the Paris sophomore, seemed to have earned a crack at the starting guard positions against Akron, as a result of their brilliant floor play against Creighton. Goforth, who incidentally, seems to be losing a lot of weight, was an alert and aggressive man, and Hodge, who also starred in the Notre Dame game, won the applause of the crowd for his great defensive work, interspersed with several beautiful long shots, is consistently proving his value.

The SAE's seem to hold the edge in the battle for intramural honors at the present time, but the basketball for intramural men is fast approaching, and it is now up to the SAE's to show their strength in holding off the furious charges of panting young collegians who wish to reduce that lead enjoyed by the lordly young men from the corner of Limestone and Bassett Court.

Say, you fellows who want to work off a bay window or fallen arches, and don't like the games offered by the department of physical education, here's a tip. Try badminton. The game will erase that tubby look and make you look like Charles Atlas. The department of physical education is offering a course in this old English pastime the next semester. So try it, and see if you don't like it.

The R. O. T. C. infantrymen will feel relieved when we tell them that there are four Cannons here. Two legged Carrs, Cash on the hoof, a walking Cave, talking Clay, a studious Cliff, Cooper doing anything but making barrels, Crooks not robbing people, Foxes, Farmers in the A. & S. enrollment, and Halls who walk the halls, are some of the oddities strolling about your campus.

And then there's that guy Kerler, who always gets in girls' hair.

The Kentucky Wildcat basketball teams have won 101 games and lost only seventeen since Adolph Rupp took charge at the beginning of the 1930 season.

The original Celtics have averaged more than 135 games for the last ten years and have never lost more than 10 contests in any one season.

Doctor Bassett, Hopkinsville, has been re-elected president of the Kitty League for the 1937 baseball season.

Apparently thinking that his pitching arm is mended, Paul "Daffy" Dean has applied for reinstatement on the St. Louis Cardinals active playing list.

Martin "Farmer" Burns, former world's wrestling champion who died recently in Iowa, engaged in 6,000 grappling matches and lost only seven.

Fred Perry upset the experts and Ellsworth Vines by beating Vines in the first three professional matches on their tennis tour.

Political changes and the influence of the militia in Japan were the main topics of a discussion given last Wednesday night by Dr. Paul H. Clyde, of the University department of history, before the regular meeting of the Central Kentucky Reserve Officers mess in the Phoenix hotel. Doctor Clyde was introduced by Leroy Miles, president.
